Greetings to our Mental Health and Healthcare Community,

The Chicago School of Professional Psychology (TCSP) Office of Continuing Education will host our first ever Continuing Education Bonanza from November 3rd through 6th, 2021.

This virtual, continuing education (CE) conference, aims to feature an array of CE eligible topics of interest to mental health counselors, social workers, human resource professionals, behavioral therapists, nurses, psychologists and educators. Continuing education programs may be either one or three hours in length.

Our office is highly committed to mentoring masters and doctoral students with their scholarly pursuits and welcome proposals that include students as co-presenters for CE Eligible programs. Student led program submissions are welcome for the student presentation track.

In addition to professional development trainings, we are looking for a few, creative programs to get participants (and their families) moving/talking/collaborating in between professional development sessions. These one-hour, recess sessions, are Non-CE eligible programs that allow participants (and/or their families) to engage via zoom in unique ways. Some examples include; guided meditation, yoga, fitness programs, and educational game shows. Programs that include activities for families and/or children are encouraged.

To this end, we are seeking quality proposals, which highlight the following conference themes:

Day 1 Theme- Global Celebration- Celebrating scholarship, research and creativity from around the globe.

Day 2 Theme- Special Populations- Sharing scholarship, research and innovations focusing on minorities, subgroups, outgroups and the interaction between group or within organizations.

Day 3 theme- Ethics, Morality and Law

Day 4 theme- Holidays and emotions- Psychological considerations and the holidays themed programs and presentations
