Official Course Description

This interdisciplinary course will examine the intersection of related fields in psychology with the Chinese Culture. We will explore how learning theories are integrated into diverse Chinese learning contexts, analyze organizational processes, and study mental health and wellbeing in China. While in China, in addition to being immersed in a variety of cultural excursions and events, students will engage with students and faculty in primary, secondary, and higher education settings and engage in Sandplay Therapy in a variety of contexts. Students will gain access to corporations and meet with business leaders. Further, students will visit Alibaba and gain insight into their methods of employee training and development.

Institutional Learning Competencies and Outcomes

Institutional Learning Outcomes

Diversity

Graduates will respect the value and dignity of individuals and groups across all cultural contexts, and advocate for inclusion and equity. They will demonstrate intercultural competence in domestic and international contexts with people who have ideas, beliefs, worldviews, experiences, and behaviors that are different from their own.

By the end of this course, students will be able to...

- CLO1: Demonstrate knowledge of the world-view of the local culture within the context of psychology.
  - MLO1: Describe how educational psychology theories are integrated into diverse Chinese learning contexts.
  - MLO2: Explain differences between western and eastern cultures.

Academic Blog

Academic Blog Rubric, 20 pts.

Making time to thoughtfully read the articles and books and watch the videos is critical to your success and transformational learning! For this reason, a meaningful portion of your grade comes from carefully demonstrating your understanding and perceptions of the course content that you gain thorough reading, viewing, and reflecting. You will also update your blog in China and use it during our guided discussion and meetings. Quotes and references from it will be used for your Capstone Project, too.

This regularly repeated assignment includes creating a weekly academic "blog" entry. The journal should include notes or reflections for the readings and videos and any additional materials you research in the course.

As you read each week, you will create an annotated bibliography, write bulleted notes, create graphical organizers, make mind maps, create reflection videos, add photos to readings in both units of the module as assigned. Responses can include questions or ideas about the readings, ideas for future research, personal or real-world applications, connections to your field, connections with other classes, or anything else that piques your interest and shows how well you comprehend the materials. The format is completely up to you, as long as you engage with each assigned reading and appropriately cite by author and year.

You are encouraged to leverage technology to create a dynamic blog. There are many free blog platforms that can be viewed here: <https://www.creativeblog.com/web-design/best-blogging-platforms-121413634>

Here are key areas to ponder that will help you with the final project, too:

- Make cross cultural connections between your culture and China.
- Note ideas of how you can apply what you are learning in your professional development journey and our greater society.
- Think critically about the research available. How does it fit with other disciplines and lend to cross-disciplinary perspectives?

Develop at least 1-page of writing or video content (at least four minutes in length) for each module's topic, but you are welcome to produce more if it helps you process and learn. A combination of writing, video content, and photos is encouraged.

Upload of blog to discussion post due Thursday, 11:59PM, CST
At least two meaningful responses to your peers is due no later than Sunday, 11:59pm, CST
