

Parenting Resources

While students are covered under TCSPP's Student Policy on Pregnancy and Related Conditions while pregnant, many students request resources to assist with parenting while in undergraduate or graduate school. This page has been developed to provide students with those resources.

Childcare Resources

Did you know there are additional financial aid resources that can assist with childcare? This is covered under our supplemental funding. Connect with a Financial Aid Advisor today.

Are you a member of the military? There may be subsidiaries to assist with child care costs.

The Child Care and Development Fund offers funding to parents who need childcare due to work, work training, or school. The Fund is available for parents who are the primary caregiver to a child under the age of 13 and need help paying for child care and characterize their financial situation as low-income.

Other Resources

- A student may take a degree-required course on a different campus or in a different modality on a space available basis (e.g., taking an online course as a ground student). To request approval, consult with their Department Chair and connect with your Student Support Counselor to discuss your options. More information can be found in the Academic Catalog and Student Handbook > Academic Policies and Procedures > Cross Registration.
- APA article (April 2016)
- Institute for Women's Policy Research's list of resources
- The National Center for Student Parents
- The SPARK Collaborative
- Video - Balancing Pregnancy, Parenthood, & Graduate School Panel